

RAINFOREST

These giant trees are nature's umbrellas.

Drip, drip, drip.

The sun pours its gold through millions of leaves, tigering the light.

A dense neighborhood of vines welcomes untold numbers of creatures, many as yet unnamed.

The Rainforest is Earth's garden, yet needs no gardener.

Left to itself, this butterfly kingdom is its own best keeper.

Let the green kingdom show us the nature of wisdom—

let the richest garden on Earth prove to us the wisdom of Nature.

And the Rainforest goes green to the . . .